Robs Blog post
- Ok I have the example from his post working but its only for one type of model
  - Choices are either to work out what models this function exists for for in package (I have not found any so far)
  - Or write it for other models using robs code as the basis and hope I don't ruin it.
	- Try and find it in fable tools and if not put an issue in the github
	  - Look at models in the fable stuff
